
Copyright and License:

At MedPulse Spectrum, authors of open access articles retain copyright ownership. By granting MedPulse Spectrum the right to publish their work, authors acknowledge it as the original source of publication. Authors also permit third parties to use the article, ensuring its integrity is maintained and proper acknowledgment of original authors, citation details, and publisher are provided.

Our publishing standards are formalized under the Creative Commons Attribution License 4.0. Certain journals within MedPulse Spectrum may additionally adhere to an Open Data policy, applying the Creative Commons CC0 1.0 Public Domain Dedication waiver to published data. Specific details are available on respective journal pages and the license agreement.

In cases where copyright ownership cannot be held by authors (e.g., US government employees or Commonwealth government personnel), minor modifications may be needed. The copyright line and license statement in individual articles will be adjusted accordingly, such as stating '© 2016 Crown copyright'. Authors needing such adjustments should inform MedPulse Spectrum during or immediately after article submission. Changes to the copyright line cannot be made post-publication.

Exceptions to Copyright Policy: Instances may arise where copyright and licensing differ due to prior publication under distinct policies. For instance, MedPulse Spectrum may occasionally co-publish articles with other publishers, resulting in varying licensing conditions. Regardless, access to these articles remains free from fees or access restrictions.